CAUSE

Mr. Bonds has a projected release date of July 21, 2009. He has made the request, through his case manager in the Bureau of Prisons, to have a post incarceration Residential Reentry Center (RRC) placement, as he does not expect to have any suitable housing upon his release.

Since Mr. Bonds is a sex offender, there are certain conditions of supervision to which he must be subject in order to be eligible for an RRC placement in our district. He must participate in sex offender treatment, and he must be monitored by electronic device. The specific requirements for the RRC in this district have been discussed at length with the case manager, who in turn discussed the situation with Mr. Bonds.

The first two requested conditions will allow for Mr. Bonds to have stable housing at the RRC upon his release from custody, and location monitoring as required by the facility. The term of housing will not necessarily be for the full 180 days, but only as long as necessary for Mr. Bonds to secure his own residence.

However, at the current time the RRC in this district will only allow sex offenders in the facility who have been classified through the Static 99, a risk assessment tool, as low or low to medium risk. Mr. Bonds has been evaluated through this instrument, and is considered a medium to high risk sex offender. Therefore, he would not qualify for the RRC with the current restrictions. For this reason, we have made the request for the third modification. If the RRC changes the requirements prior to Mr. Bonds' release, then the initial placement goal will be at the RRC.

The above modifications are a joint request of the probation office and Mr. Bonds. The conditions provide for the basic concern of stable housing for Mr. Bonds upon his immediate release. The benefit is not only for Mr. Bonds, but also for the safety of the community, through the monitoring of his activities and by placing him in appropriate housing.
